Management Team

Angie Briones, M.P.A.
Program Officer

Angie has more than 25 years of experience working with nonprofit organizations in the areas of planning, program development, fund development, management and administration. Before joining The Health Trust, Angie served as Director of Contracts and Fund Development at the Center for Employment Training in San Jose. Prior to that, she was Executive Director of the El Paso Collaborative for Community and Economic Development where she successfully replicated three national programs and secured over $2 million in funding for local housing and homeownership projects. From 1990-97, Angie worked for the Levi Strauss Foundation where she carried out corporate grantmaking activities in the tri-state region of Texas, New Mexico and Nevada. Her responsibilities included government/community relations, proposal evaluation, monitoring and due diligence, and identifying strategic grantmaking opportunities in the areas of health promotion/disease prevention, HIV/AIDS and community economic development. During her years as a stay-at-home mom, Angie worked as an independent consultant, providing technical assistance, program development and grantwriting services to numerous nonprofits and helping them to secure over $3 million in funding for a variety of programs and services, including child development, family support services, homeless shelters, job training/employment, literacy/basic education, homeownership counseling, affordable housing development, business/economic development ventures, and teen pregnancy prevention programs. Angie has devoted her career to improving the lives of low-income people through community organizing, advocacy/public policy, and fundraising in both paid and volunteer positions. She has served on several boards at the local, state, and national level and is an experienced federal proposal reviewer. Angie received her Bachelor's degree in Economics from Stanford University and has a Master's degree in Public Administration from San Jose State University.
